Another Tool for the Philatelic Workbench

by David M. Frye

According to the Oct. 31, 2011, issue of Linn's Stamp News, the Philatelic Foundation has made a library of 325,000 images and matching opinions of philatelic items available on its Web site for the public to use freely. This creates the option for philatelists to wield another tool in their research. When the project is complete, sixty-six years' worth of opinions, totalling 500,000 entries, will appear on the site.

A pair of the Bunker Hill definitive from the Liberty Series. This small-hole variant, Scott 1056s, was issued in January 1961, appearing only as Bureau precancels. The Philatelic Foundation issued a certificate stating the opinion that this pair, with a 2008 catalogue value of $850, is genuine. The database at www.philatelicfoundation.org is searchable.

News Note

The October 2011 issue of The Postal History Journal (Issue 150) contains an article by David Frye. "Traces of Transitions: 1961 Postage Stamps" explores the effects of changes in presidential administration, traditions, rates, and printing technologies on the postal issues released by the U.S. Post Office Department that year. The research grew out of an interest in the history of his birth year and his experience studying postal history at the APS's 2008 Summer Seminar.
